Customer Reviews

I have bought Leonard Maltin's Movie Guide since the early 1980s and have always enjoyed it. He has over 16,000 thoughtful reviews of many different movies and would go to a lot of trouble getting the title listing, year and running time correct. Unfortunately in the last few years he has cut features out of the book. One reviewer noted that the book is shrinking, this is true. The 2013 version has 1640 pages and the 2015 has only 1611 pages. The index of stars has been cut from this edition, they also had a index of directors which was cut years ago too, along with TV made movies. He is also cutting out any silent movies (movies released before 1927) from the 2015 edition. I am going to keep my 2013 edition on hand for the features that were cut in the 2015 edition. He seems to have a terrible phobia about letting the book get too big, he could easily divide a book with all of the features that we love into 2 parts and sell them in a sleeve. After 46 years of publications, Maltin is announcing that this is his last edition. In the "Introduction to 2015 Edition", he starts out this section by stating "This is the final edition of Leonard Maltin's Movie Guide. There's no way to soften or defect that news, although I can't pretend that it comes as a shock. With ready access to information on the Internet, our readership has diminished at an alarming rate. The book's loyal followers know that we strive to offer something one can't easily find online: curated information that is accurate and user-friendly, along with our own reviews and ratings. But when a growing number of people believe that everything should be free, it's impossible to support a reference book that requires a staff of contributors and editors.
